I know I can get rid of the padding by using padding: 0 3px; but I am not sure how I can keep the 3px padding at the bottom of the circle. HTML Some text CSS .circle{ height: 60px; width: 60px; border-radius: 100%; border: 1px solid #ccc; margin: 0 30px; position: relative; } .circle__img { height: 60px;

This key macro will add rows in Kaspersky antivirus engine database to detect macros. The first row of keyboard macros is defined in the 2nd column in the first row of the input. You can set all the keyboard macros, and make your own style. This is a macro that changes all keys to be left CTRL + key pressed, and every time a key is pressed, it will be preceded by "~" and every time the key is released, it will be followed by "~". This macro is highly customizable to your own tastes, so feel free to set as many shortcuts as you wish (that you can use, of course). For example, the letters that you want to use will be set to be sent to you before the cursor moves to them, and the cursor will move to them after you release them. For example, the first row will be set to press CTRL+a, then it will be send to you and the cursor will move to a, and then you release the key and the cursor will go to the next letter.
