A: The short answer is to not do this at all. Force downloads get deleted once the torrent finishes downloading. After running a BitTorrent client for about ten hours and a total of 4000GB have been transmitted I noticed that my Steam client started downloading the Steam version of my games instead of the releases version. The only way I could get the releases version back was to reinstall Steam and then re-download the games. That happened for a lot of games, including your game (which I actually played for about half an hour). If you do need to do this for some reason, look up the SHA1 hash of the game on and then use the following format to re-download it (note that the following format is for CPY release only, you can just omit the 'u' and '&9');
